Jourdan River loading operation gets MMRC ok

by JAKE JACOB

Jurisdictional limitations were cited by the Mississippi Marine Resources Commission (MMRC) Tuesday, as being principal cause of their granting dredging and bulkhead construction permits to International Paper Corp., for creation of a front end barge loading facility on the Jourdan River at the Old Kih Landing.

The proposal was protested on Monday by the Hancock County Board

Diamondhead princess is Miss Vaughn

by JAKE JACOB

Dawn Vaughn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Vaughan of Pass Christian, Mississippi, has been declared Hancock County's fourth contestant in the state Deep Sea Fishing Rodeo Queen contest.

Princess Vaughn is representing Diamondhead, and was the first runner-up in that rodeo in 1976-77. Judged the Most Photogenic in Miss Bikini Beach Contest, Miss Vaughn, is Pass Christian's Junior Miss, Miss Teen of Diamondhead, her school's Homecoming Queen.

A homecoming maid in her junior year, she is a member of Kappa Delta Sorority, Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity Little Sis, is mentioned in Who's Who among American High School Students, holds the State French Award, and is a member of the National Honor Society.

The queen will be chosen and crowned at the annual pre-rodeo pageant, June 30, at the Broadwater Beach Hotel, Biloxi. The fishing rodeo, an annual event since 1947, will be staged over the July Fourth weekend.

Sam Favre, a Bay St. Louis attorney, will rule over the event as King Neptune, 1977.

The other royal contestants from Hancock County are: Letitia Jane Haas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael D. Haas of Bay St. Louis, representing that city; Madonna Grace Peterson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Peterson of Waveland, representing that city; Kathy Leigh Wehre, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson W. Wehre, representing Hancock County. All are among 15 princesses selected from across the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

For EDA fund split

by JAKE JACOB

A joint meeting between the Hancock County School Board and the county supervisors has been set for Friday morning at 10:30 a.m. in the latter's boardroom, in an attempt to determine the disposition of some $290,000 in Economic Development Administration (EDA) funds recently awarded to the county.

Supervisor prexy Alton A. Keller stated last week that he could see no strings attached to the money, a fact challenged on Monday by School Superintendent Terrell Randolph.

Randolph said the funds had been allocated by EDA to serve the county's "highest priority needs."

These needs, he said, were surely those of the school board.

Quizzed as to where he got his information, Randolph said it came from EDA in a packet of instructions that of Supervisors, a protest apparently of little consequence to MMRC, although it and other dissenting viewpoints were read into the minutes and made part of the record.

MMRC members were reported to have voted unanimously in favor of the dredge permit after their attorney, Virgil Gillespie, Jr. of Gulfport, claimed denial on the basis of the barges being a navigational hazard would be exceeding both the council's authority and jurisdiction.

Under state law the council is charged with protection of the coastal wetlands and has no jurisdiction over boat and water navigation safety, Gillespie told his council.

The area concerned is to be dredged nine feet deep 120 feet long and 80 feet wide. It will permit barges to be swung "end on" to the new $185,000 bulkhead, to be built by International Paper, for loads to be put onboard "over the bow."

Norton D. Haas of Bay St. Louis, serving on the MMRC, had previously sought the motion's tabling on the basis that such operation caused a navigational hazard and that barges so moored constituted a danger to sports craft using the river.

Haas said the barges project some 155 feet out into a bend in the river-leaving just about a like number of feet for all other river traffic.

"With our hopes of building up the sports craft traffic as the result of our opening McCleod Park, plus attracting other industry to the area, these barges moored across the river are not being handled in the best interests of the county," Haas said earlier this week.

Two members of the new McCleod Park Commission, Mrs. Mary Callier, and A.C. Jones, were also present at the Tuesday night session lending emphasis to the Haas claims.

The supervisors' resolution was passed following Haas telling them of additional navigational hazards possibly being caused by the barges spilling parts of their load resulting in logs floating down river which, he claimed, in at least one recent instance, may have contributed to the sinking of a small pleasure craft.

He said such logs, should they fall from the barges, would constitute a threat to water skiers and were a detriment to river development.

Haas told both the MMRC and the supervisors, that a slip adjoining their present loading site could be cleaned out and utilized by the company, resulting in their having an operation that would be safe, efficient, and one not impeding river traffic or development.

The supervisors were told that a drifting barge did ram into the I-10 bridge, causing a delay in opening the facility, after it broke loose.

Questioned by Haas as to whether or not they had obtained a permit to moor the barges out into the river, Charles Ford of IP's Pascagoula office, reportedly replied that such is not required. The method of mooring is

Citizens voice objection to legion pier dumping

by JERRY WHITTLE

A group of Bay St. Louis residents, estimated at 25, met Monday morning with the local governing body to voice strong objection to dumping by Hancock County officials at the Legion Pier. City officials were quizzed by the citizens on a number of points concerning the dumping procedures at the pier. Following the lengthy question and answer period, the council voted to ask all dumping practices at the pier be halted at once.

Walter Odus, acting as group spokesman, posed the first series of questions concerning the possible change in zoning for the pier area. It was explained that the area had not been rezoned, but steps had been taken in the event the area was to be rezoned in the future. The steps consisted of approval by the council, following recommendation by the city's zoning board, and publication of the revised zoning ordinance. Any future changes to a different zone would require a public hearing at which objects would be heard.

All of the questions concerning the zoning of the pier area were raised in conjunction with the group's objection to a proposed marina. A group of citizens met several years ago to voice their objections to the construction of the marina. Very little action, other than planning and design, has been started on the proposed project, but at the last meeting of the council, the members unanimously voted to ask Burk and Associates, who handle the engineering work for the city, to proceed with plans to file an application for funding the project.

Mayor Warren Carver explained that Burk and Associates had not filed for the EDA grant because there were not any funds available at the present time.

Carver said he had spoken with Charlie Hill of Burk and Associates and was told the application for the marina had not been made. The group later questioned if it was up to Hill to

Christopher Moore granted new trial, to be heard in Hancock County court

by JAKE JACOB

Christopher Alvin Moore, 24, convicted in October 1975, in Hancock County court, to the rape-murder of a Pascagoula school teacher, some six months earlier, and sentenced by Judge J. Ruble Griffin to die Dec. 12, in the gas chamber, who subsequently had his sentence declared unconstitutional, is to be retried in the same courtroom.

Moore, a black, was granted the new trial by the Mississippi Supreme Court after his conviction was overturned by that body on the basis that the mandatory death penalty statute then in effect was unconstitutional.

His attorney, Kannie Middleton of Hattiesburg, said this week that he will seek a continuance from the upcoming court term which opens July 11 in the Hancock County courthouse.

Middleton has apparently indicated he plans to associate with non-local attorneys for the second trial and is seeking the continuance to permit their availability.

The case was originally to be heard in Jackson County but was moved to Hancock on a change of venue motion. Defense attorneys at that time claimed widespread publicity surrounding the case would prevent Moore from receiving a fair trial in Jackson County.

Moore is accused of raping and murdering Mrs. Irene Hoffman, a 29 year old white school teacher, at her home across the street from the elementary school where she taught.

Her body, according to witnesses, was discovered after she failed to return to school following a break period.

Federal Bureau of Investigation personnel subsequently linked Moore to the slaying through a fingerprint found on an open window, even though he denied being at the residence at any time, and hair samples.

The all-white jury deliberated almost five hours before returning their verdict. They entered the courtroom with solemn expressions and two of their number, both women, appeared to have been crying.

Moore listened unemotionally as Judge Griffin handed down his mandatory death sentence.

As an automatic procedure under

Alcan moves to quell Central Ave. tar boil

BY JAKE JACOB

A bush fire on Central Avenue, about two weeks ago, just west of the Alcan Aluminum plant, Bay St. Louis, brought a situation to light that has long remained buried and unknown to area property owners.

A tar pit, apparently covered over and left behind when Gulf Paving left the city, boiled to the surface and added its full force to the fire, requiring the Bay PD to pump foam over the entire area before the fire could be brought under control.

The heat generated by the blaze, plus the continuing spell of hot weather, then caused the tar to maintain its boiling state resulting in a potentially dangerous situation.

Not only did the tar begin to indurate the former asphalt plant site but, because of the close proximity of the tar pit to the road, began to spill over into Central Avenue.

Alcan officials, realizing immediate action was required, promptly began to equalize the substance by saturating it with dirt, sand, and gravel, in an attempt to make it pliable enough to dig up and haul away.

To date more than 10 truckloads of cover have been applied but as of yesterday afternoon, the tar is still boiling from the ground. Additional material is enroute and will be applied as conditions permit.

A restraining fence is to be constructed across the offending area to prevent accidental ingress by people, and warning signs have been posted.

Gulf Paving utilized the site for its

County need rating session set for Friday in courthouse

by JAKE JACOB

A joint meeting between the Hancock County School Board and the county supervisors has been set for Friday morning at 10:30 a.m. in the latter's boardroom, in an attempt to determine the disposition of some $290,000 in Economic Development Administration (EDA) funds recently awarded to the county.

Supervisor prexy Alton A. Keller stated last week that he could see no strings attached to the money, a fact challenged on Monday by School Superintendent Terrell Randolph.

Randolph said the funds had been allocated by EDA to serve the county's "highest priority needs."

These needs, he said, were surely those of the school board.

Quizzed as to where he got his information, Randolph said it came from EDA in a packet of instructions that had also been received by the county courthouse.

Both the supervisors and the school board had applications pending with EDA at the time of the award, but under its provisions it was determined a list of priorities would first have to be submitted to EDA, and receive their endorsement before any cash would flow.

The school board's appeal followed a like presentation by Wilson W. Wehre, port director, who claimed the money could best be utilized in development of the industrial park at Stennis International Airport.

Randolph immediately shot the bolt to the port and harbor claim stating that only the school board and the supervisors had any say in the matter.

"The port commission is an arm of the supervisors and not an autonomous county agency," Randolph said.

"Applications submitted by the port commission, or any business conducted by them, must be approved by the supervisors.

"Thus the only two groups having application before EDA are the supervisors and the school board, and therefore these are the only two county entities that can determine the priorities," Randolph declared.

Wehre said the airport's development would result almost immediately in the acquisition of two new industries at that location which would employ in the neighborhood of 100 people.

But, by the same token, with his original application totaling some $345,000, Wehre admitted the money available was "totally insufficient to fund the Stennis Field development."

He said his commission feels they

Hancock jail cracker caught in burglary

by JAKE JACOB

Reports from Mobile, Ala., Tuesday told Sheriff Sylvan Ledner of Hancock County, that Jimmy Sullivan, one of four county prisoners who escaped the local lock-up May 14 has been recaptured there.

A certified copy of arrests and convictions against Sullivan was dispatched the same day along with a request that extradition proceedings be waived and he be returned here.

According to Sergeant Charles Boyless of the Mobile Police Department, Sullivan was one of four persons caught by that department in the actual act of burglarizing a residence in that city.

Boyless reportedly said, "This is no case of supposition. They were caught in the act and we have lodged charges of second degree burglary against all four."

Sullivan was being held in the Hancock jail after being sentenced to three years confinement following his conviction on a rape charge, and an additional year in jail on his conviction on a previous jail break attempt.

Born on July 1, 1956, he is a resident of Bay St. Louis.

His latest escape was made with the assist of three other inmates, Robert Bennett, Jr., Dwight Hendricks, and John Alfred Butler.

Reports circulating following the break indicated outside assistance may have been used, as the four sawed through the bars of their cell, forced a thick metal screen, and lowered themselves to freedom from a second story window on a rope made of bed sheets and blankets.

Officers said at that time that at least three hack saw blades were found in the empty cell. The blades, they conjectured, must have been smuggled in

THE OLE

PASTOR

SAYS...

A DEVOTIONAL COMMENTARY

Life is interesting to me! One thing which has contributed to such interest in my life has been meeting and knowing people.

It has been my pleasure to travel over much of this great land we call America, as well as into many other parts of the world in the 64 years of my life. Most of us in an average lifetime meet many people along the winding pathway of our lives. Some we meet by chance. Others are perhaps introduced to us by a mutual friend. There is the usual warm handclasp with an expression of deep pleasure. But one Sunday evening during a worship service I met a different kind of person in a different kind of way. This Man was introduced to me by the Holy Spirit through the Word of God. This has remained, as it was that memorable evening, the most thrilling, endearing and enduring experience of all my life.

No, there was not the usual personal handshake. But He was there, and He was real. He brought to me salvation, peace and joy. I was moved with deep and abiding conviction and emotion; and words fail to describe the joy that filled my heart.

The Holy Spirit seemed to suggest there was much more to be learned about this Man. I found myself anxious to know more about Him. I was profoundly impressed by the Holy Spirit, our Helper "who stands along side of us" to "search the Scriptures," for therein would I become better acquainted with this great Personality. In doing so I learned of His love, sorrow, suffering, and of His supreme sacrifice made for me and for all men at Calvary. As a matter of fact, the mystery of life itself, and all the wonders of the natural creation about me, was a testimonial to the glorious work and power of this Man. But it was the Bible that really informed me as to just who this Man was.

I was simply amazed at His compassion toward men. He was God's man and man's God! This man was quite different from any other I had ever met. There is a reason: He is Jesus Christ, the Son of God, our Saviour and Lord! Life has never been quite the same with me since I met Him.

Jourdan River

covered under the general laws of navigation in the U.S. and does not require a separate permit, he explained.

Haas said IP was again asked to "...return the river to the people" (and use the slip), but declined.

The MMRC was also told by IP's attorney that if they had wished to object to IP's operation they had adequate opportunity within the framework of the Corps of Engineers' advertised notice of their dredging intent.

This time has now passed, the attorney said.

Confusion seemed to exist which authority was in actual charge of navigational safety in the river with such identities as the US Coast Guard and State Boat Safety Commission being cited.

A witness from the latter group said

They promised at that time to make sure the barges were adequately illuminated at night and that at times of high or swift running water, an alert anchor watch would be maintained.

The dairy cow is the most efficient farm animal in converting forage and grain into food. Every year dairy cows munch a mountain of 13 million tons of byproducts. Because of microorganisms living in their rumen, cows have the unique ability to transform these worthless materials into nutrients that can be used to produce milk. It is estimated that cows can be maintained on a ration of 80-100 percent non-grain feeds.

Senior Citizens happenings

BY FRED HORN

Wednesday June 15th, Bobby Boudin Civil Defense Director for Hancock County, and Ed Friloux, Chief of the Diamondhead Fire Department presented three films on preparedness for various types of disasters, namely "Flash Floods," "Tornadoes," and "Hurricanes."

After the showing of the films, Boudin talked about the different safety rules to follow, prior to all types of disasters.

By observing the safety rules, noted in his lecture, many lives could be saved. In the event of an all out alert, Hancock County Civil Defense would have the cooperation of WFUP to broadcast warnings and advisory reports 24 hours a day on an emergency basis only.

Friloux informed the Seniors, that Hancock County has one of the best fire radio network systems in the state, located at the Bay St. Louis Fire Department, with a back up located at Diamondhead Fire Department. He also told the Seniors that in the very near future, classes would be starting on self help medical courses, which includes Coronary Pulmonary Resuscitation. The above mentioned course is worthy of your attention, for Seniors who are physically capable of completing the self help medical course, along with all the citizens of Hancock County who would be interested, watch this newspaper for the starting date of the safety class.

If any Senior Citizen who has not seen the films or attended the orientation which followed the showing and would like to see it, please contact Fred Horn or Jim Hoda 467-9292, we can then make arrangements with the Civil Defense Department to present the orientation, with the three films some time in the near future.

JUNE BIRTHDAY PARTY

Mrs. Elma Joubert will entertain on the piano. There will be variety entertainment, consisting of singing, comedy, musical impressions by the writer and community singing, followed by refreshments. Seniors who have birthdays in June and are registered with the Senior Citizens Program, please contact Fred Horn or Jim Hoda 467-9292.

HORTICULTURE

Members of the class, lets make this picnic an outstanding one, as this event marks the end of all activities, until Tuesday, September 6th, when the members start their fall classes. For any other information, call Fred Horn, 467-9292 or Wilma Miller 467-7677. We plan many outstanding events to take place in the near future. If you have an original idea in regards to different types of events, please contact Horn, 467-9292.

Young appointed to Academy

Congressman Trent Lott, R-Miss., revealed today that 17-year-old Valerie Jean Young of Pearlington has won an appointment to the United States Air Force Academy.

Lott said Miss Young, the daughter of Thomas and Naomi Young of Pearlington, received the appointment for the freshman class of 1977. She was nominated by Lott last January.

"She has a very impressive background," Lott said of the Bay High School graduate. "She was very highly recommended by a number of people in the Pearlington-Bay St. Louis area and I'm quite confident that she will live up to their expectations."

Miss Young emerged with the appointment after successfully completing a series of demanding physical, medical and aptitude examinations.

She ranked first in her class at Bay Senior High School, where she was president of her Science Club and vice president of the National Honor Society. She has also won honors at district, state and international science fairs for 1974-76.

Miss Young worked with the Youth Conservation Corps at a state park last summer. She was also honored at the 1975 National French 1 tests.

Study shows hurricanes can affect ocean depth

For the first time there is evidence that a hurricane is powerful enough to affect even the ocean depths. This has been discovered in a study just completed by Dr. Patrick Taylor of the Naval Ocean Research and Development Activity (NORDA). Dr. Taylor, a marine geologist with NORDA's Naval Oceanographic Laboratory, has found that the force of at least four hurricanes which surged over the Atlantic Ocean last summer was felt all the way to the ocean bottom, some five kilometers or nearly three miles below the surface.

Last August, Dr. Taylor, working with L. A. Banchero, a NORDA oceanographer, placed an array of current meters on the ocean bottom in three locations northeast of Bermuda. Following retrieval in February, Dr. Taylor learned that a bottom current of more than 30 centimeters per second (0.6 knots) were generated by three of the hurricanes as they passed over the surface and nearly that speed by a fourth. This is strong enough to scour the ocean bottom and move sediment on the bottom and redeposit it elsewhere. The long-term effect is to modify the contours of the sea floor. The measurement of these bottom currents is particularly significant since few such measurements have been made due to the difficulty in placing current meters on the deep ocean bottom and retrieving them.

It is important for the Navy to understand the formation of the sea floor and to map its contours since its composition and shape significantly affect the propagation of underwater sound. Dr. Taylor initiated his study to find out precisely what has caused the distribution of sediment on the flanks of the Gilliss Seamount, a submarine volcano recently discovered about 360 miles northeast of Bermuda rising three kilometers (nearly two miles) above the sea floor. (There are a chain of at least 32 of these undersea volcanoes in the Atlantic).

In 1973, Dr. Taylor led a team of marine geologists who conducted a photographic survey of the Gilliss Seamount. This study obtained more than 200 remarkable photographs of the bottom that were taken and processed by Walter Jahn, also a NORDA marine geologist. Through seismic soundings sediment was found to be as much as 668 meters (nearly 1900 feet) thick on the lower slopes of the seamount. It was thought then to have been caused primarily by sediment deposited at higher levels and then sliding down the slope, but now it appears that strong occasional bottom currents play a major role with hurricanes as one source of these currents.

Further study will be needed to determine the long-range effect of the deformation of ocean-bottom sediment by these rapid currents.

determine which applications should be filed, with one lady stated she was glad the marina application was not filed. Carver said that was not the case, but since funds were not available, there was no need to file the application. Commissioner Lucien Kidd added the same answer when he noted that the Federal Bureau of Outdoor Recreation does not have any funding available at this time for the marina.

The group questioned the council as to who gave authorization to the Hancock County Board of Supervisors to dump at the pier? Kidd was asked directly if he gave Sam Perniciaro permission to dump "riff-raff" at the pier. Kidd said he had not. He was also asked if he gave Perniciaro permission to dump mud at the pier. Kidd answered once again he had not.

The question was raised as to who gave permission for the Board of Supervisors to dump at the pier. The council said there might have been some agreement between the city's Parks and Playground Commission and the county, but they (the council) were not aware of any agreement. It was also stated that the county had been given a general permit to fill in various areas. In returning to the marina question, the group quizzed the council as to the cost of the project. It was noted the first estimate, several years ago, was set at $1.2 million, but that the costs today would be much higher.

Finally, after a 45 minute discussion, Mayor Carver said he felt a motion to halt the dumping was in order. Commissioner Kidd made the motion, which was amended by a suggestion from the group to include everyone, to cease the dumping at the pier. Following the passage, a lady asked City Attorney Jody Gex what steps would be necessary to prevent the dumping, namely, would they have to get a court order or file suit? Gex said if it went that far an injunction would have to be obtained. However, it was agreed that the Mayor was to notify those affected and see if the matter could not be settled without any further action.

In a final statement, Carver noted that as far as this council was concerned, no action would be taken on the marina. They leave office at the end of this month.

Moore trial...

the state's then capital punishment law, the judge said he would order a stay of execution when the case was appealed to the Mississippi Supreme Court.

Circuit Court Clerk Henry Otis said yesterday that under the new law the jury, or a separate jury empaneled for that purpose, must impose the sentence upon completion of capital punishment cases should they find any defendant guilty.

The then leader of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC) Rev. Ralph Abernathy was in the courtroom with the Moore family at the time of verdict. He subsequently led a protest march from Bay St. Louis to Pascagoula over the Thanksgiving Holiday.

During the course of the trial, the defense had sought a new trial on a motion citing in part, "bias, passion, and prejudice" in the minds of the jury; the court's failure to prohibit photographs depicting "gory stab wounds" which would "inflammatory the jurors" as three of the eight reasons for a new trial.

Spectators had been searched for weapons as they entered the courtroom on the trial's opening day.

Members of the Hoffman family, including the victim's husband, his mother and stepfather, cousin and sister, and the father of Mrs. Hoffman, left the courtroom immediately following the announcement of sentence.

Andrew Gambrell, also an attorney for the defense, said following the trial that Moore's conviction, "...reflected the attitudes of people in authority all over the state."

Blaming the state's inadequate judicial system, he said, "I don't think a black defendant could get a fair trial in the State of Mississippi."

Tar boil...

asphalt plant when fixing roads within the city damaged by Hurricane Camille in 1969.

Alcan, who arrived here in January 1975, had no idea the tar pit lay concealed under the bush until the fire. The company originally purchased the Rittner Industrial Enameling Building, later closing the sale on some 13 acres of surrounding property.

Tragically, the tar boil became the death site of a stray dog who wandered into the morass and was unable to extricate itself. Spotted by passing motorists, the dog was eventually freed but had to be destroyed.

The irony of this is that when Alcan bought the property, part was that on which the city dog pound sits. Alcan, since its arrival, has spent and still spends considerable money on fix-up and maintenance at no charge to the city, as a good-will gesture.

Alcan officials this week said they would continue to monitor the situation as long as any danger existed, and continue to make all effort in having the problem neutralized.

County needs...

must pursue the application and that their project is the best one (for the county), and they were exploring every possible means for financing its completion if not in the immediate then in the foreseeable future.

Randolph said that in this instance the county and its school board were equal partners and must by law establish the priorities "... critical to local needs."

The urgent needs of the school board, Randolph said, centered on the Hancock North Central School need for a new cafeteria and additional classrooms, and the need for restrooms at the Gulfview gymnasium.

He said the school board could run the $200,000 up to $550,000 by using it as matching monies against Educational Finance Commission building credits, which by July will match the EDA money on a dollar for dollar basis.

"We can get over $550,000," Randolph said.

He told the supervisors the first grade children had to begin eating lunch at 10:15 a.m., in order to move all the students through the North Central cafeteria, a time that may have to be advanced a further 15 minutes for the 1977-78 school year should an expected 100 enrollment increase be realized.

"We are serving 1800 students in a facility created to serve 250," Randolph said.

The education superintendent then demonstrated the supervisors against any alternate use of the money saying the need for the cafeteria and classrooms at North Central and the restrooms at Gulfview far outpaced any other county priorities.

He said the state approved and authorized increase in teacher's salaries was to cost the system an additional $20,000 in the coming year, a sum he would have to find from timber sale monies.

Kellar asked Randolph if he understood him correctly in that he was asking the supervisors for all the EDA money. Randolph, stating that he doubted other priorities could exceed those of the school system, replied in the affirmative.

Debbie Bodin, city planner, South Mississippi Planning and Development District (SMEDD), confirmed the Randolph determination of priorities requirement, while further fueling the fire with the information that such must be submitted within the next 10 days - a further requirement of EDA.

Bodin also confirmed that should the supervisors and the school board fail to agree on fund usage, then EDA would decide where it would best be spent.

Kellar agreed with the school superintendent in as much as his "... plight is pitiful," but indicated that the money received by the county is only one tenth of that requested and that the board had to be fair.

A previous plea had heard Tax Collector George Heitzmann ask for additional storage space for courthouse records

Spa owner has filed bankruptcy

by JERRY WHITTLE

The continuing saga of the Aquarius Spa and Health Club has taken another turn as it was learned this week that the owner, Mrs. Shirley Tarzetti of Bay St. Louis, has filed for bankruptcy in the Southern District of Mississippi Federal Court.

The declaration of bankruptcy temporarily delayed a hearing in Hancock County Chancery Court which was scheduled to be held last Monday. That hearing came about as a result of a suit filed in April by the State Attorney General's office. The suit prohibited Mrs. Tarzetti from attempting to collect any further membership payments from Gulf Coast consumers.

The spa was closed without warning in early April of this year and left members of the facility at a loss as to what to do about their memberships. The equipment was reportedly sent to Slidell where Mrs. Tarzetti was planning to open another spa. She later informed the members in the Bay-Waveland area that they could either make use of the soon-to-open spa in Slidell or transfer their memberships to another facility in the Biloxi-Gulfport area. However, the spa in Slidell has reportedly never opened.

With the filing for bankruptcy, the case has been removed to federal court and members and creditors will now have to file claims with the US District Court.

In a notice to creditors, Bankruptcy Judge Barney E. Eaton, III of Jackson, set the date of the meeting at which time claims may be filed, a trustee elected, elect of a committee of creditors and examine the bankrupt.

The judge set the first meeting for Wednesday, July 13, 11 a.m. in the Grand Jury Room of the Federal Building in Biloxi.

He further ordered Mrs. Tarzetti to be present at all meetings and added that her failure to appear at the first meeting would result in the case being dismissed and "absolutely no excuse will be accepted by this court."

Mrs. Tarzetti is represented by Gulfport attorney Michael H. Ward.

Ag Affairs

Rustlers eye black walnut trees

BY ED BLAKE

AG AFFAIRS

For years now about the hottest item among the rustling crowd has been black walnut trees - dead or alive!

The eastern and mid-western states have been the happy hunting grounds for these escapades. The most sophisticated modern timber harvestings rigs have been the tools that have pulled off these jobs right under the noses of even noisy neighbors who figured the hard hatted crew that rolled up, did their thing, and departed, were legitimate.

Only later, sometimes much later, did the sad new unfold that private property had been raided for the richest treasure trove still to be found in the American forestlands.

For generations its warmth, grain, texture, design, durability, and wood working characteristics have put black walnut at the top of the timber pile for the furniture market. European buyers have been scouring these United States for the past decade or so seeking wood for export. This on top of America's typical extravagance with a natural resource has sharply depleted the forests of this nation of black walnut saw timber.

A recent issue of the BUCKEYE FARM NEWS told of a black walnut tree in Ohio selling for $30,000. This price, according to the article, was the highest ever paid for a single black walnut tree. It stood 135 feet tall and measured 38.5 inches in diameter at chest height. The first 75 feet were straight, free of knots and scars. Little wonder rustlers have hit the woods!

May this article serve as a warning to Mississippians. You tree owners better mind your woods. We have some pretty classy black walnut trees still alive and well in the Magnolia State. According to the Mississippi Forestry Commission's listing of champion big trees published in 1975, our biggest black walnut tree stands in a north Mississippi county with a trunk circumference at breast height of ten feet and two inches. That means it is a good yard through - or in diameter. And it is 81 feet tall.

Still another reported in a Mississippi newspaper is even larger with a 17 foot waist line and it stands 136 feet tall.

The national champ, unless it has been superceded, has a circumference of 20 feet three inches and stands 108 feet tall a few miles south of Annapolis, Maryland. The largest known black walnut tree of all time was blown down about the turn of the 19th century in Western New York near Lake Erie. It was 35 feet around and 150 feet tall.

After the mammoth fell, a nine foot long section of the lower trunk was hollowed out and converted into a room with a door on one side, a window, a roof, and seat around the side. It once held 31 standing persons. It served as a barroom by a local inn, then was hauled by ox to Lake Erie where it was towed by water to Buffalo for use as a small grocery store. It next did an exhibition stint in New York and London. The stump house finally was lost when the museum that housed it burned.

As America's forests were being cleared by the pioneers, black walnut wood was used freely for building bridges, barns and other structures including rail fences. It is said that during the Civil War, wood from many old black walnut fences was salvaged and converted into gunstocks.

In addition to this tree's commercial value for wood and the food extracted from its nuts, black walnut burls are considered very beautiful when carved, turned on lathes, or otherwise treated and polished. Even stumps can be turned into a veneer of great beauty.

Though Mississippi has a good walnut growing potential, it has never been a contender in walnut lumber production.

Children's needs must top county priority list

The Hancock County School system intends to bring a strong case before the county supervisors on Friday at a meeting called to determine "county priorities" for the disposition of some $290,000 worth of Economic Development Administration funds.

It appears that under the terms of the grant, received recently by the county, the two boards must determine the county's number one needs, and provide EDA with this information before any of the money can be spent.

Should the two boards not agree, and they are on a pretty tight schedule, then EDA will make the determination based on information submitted to it covering such arbitration.

Earlier this year, after a fight lasting almost eight years, the school board lost the right to use their share of the Governor's Emergency Council money amounting to $180,000 due to their failure to provide matching monies or come up with an acceptable hurricane related damage rebuilding program prior to the previously imposed deadlines.

Before returning the cash the school board tried one last time to utilize it for much needed construction at Hancock North Central and Gulfview Schools.

This bid failed when in early March a final scheme to split the cash between themselves, the Bay-Waveland Municipal Separate School System, and the Picayune School District, was denied by the state finance commission whose negative attitude was harshly backed by the state budget commission who issued stop orders against all checks issued by them that month covering homestead exemption refunds. Further the budget group gave indication that future intended refunds would meet a like fate until the $180,000 was repaid.

The initial problems with the school's GEC funds arose following the state's acceptance of a repayment plan calling for the imposition of a two mill across the board levy blanketing the entire county, to remain in effect until all outstanding loan amounts were repaid.

Usage of the money by the county system subsequent to this plan would have meant double taxation for those people living in the incorporated areas, a condition unacceptable to the state.

Since that time the school system has been told it will not be issued a health certificate for North Central School unless considerable improvements are made to the existing lunch room and other facilities; the system has learned that likely enrollment increase will present almost impossible demands on its classroom space already overloaded, without further construction; it has learned that the lack of restrooms in the Gulfview gymnasium - long a source of parental discontent and student discomfort, maybe leading to actions of a more serious nature being taken.

The school board states it is in the position of being able to utilize the money as matching funds on a dollar for dollar basis with construction credits held to their account by the State Educational Finance Commission in Jackson.

Thus, the $290,000 bonanza to the county can be upped to nearly $600,000 by utilizing it for the purpose of long overdue school construction projects.

The superintendent of education said that if the money is given to the schools, approximately 1700 students will receive immediate benefit, let alone the legions to follow in subsequent years.

As things now stand the first grade students at North Central have to eat at 10:30 a.m., to give sufficient time for the school's some 1300 children to eat at a facility stated by Education Superintendent Terrell Randolph to have been built to provide for 250 students... a situation to worsen with the arrival of an upped enrollment.

Too, the school seemingly lacks sufficient toilet facilities to allow its populace to utilize same during recess resulting in constant class disturbance and a parentally unacceptable level of sanitary fitness.

The situation at Gulfview School, Lakeshore, has been described frequently, and at length, and has led to school board petition and delegation to the degree that one of its members beseeched his colleagues to embark upon a plain, unadorned bank loan for the acquisition of sufficient funds to build the needed restrooms.

In this instance it would appear the county's primary need and the county's primary responsibility lays in the provision of facilities for its children.

The school system can, at this time, procure dollar for dollar from state sources in fulfillment of its construction wants.

In any language the doubling of money makes sense, and as the future of our county relies on the education we afford our children, at this time it makes more than plain sense - it is sound judgement.

To fritter the principal sum away on petty this's or that's will not meet with the approval of parents whose children have to bear the brunt of any mismanagement or ill-placement of these funds.

The likelihood of Hancock County coming up with a similar sum earmarked for school construction before commencement of the 1977-'78 school year is very, very remote.

To deny the county school system this opportunity of fulfilling its obligations may result in activity beyond the normal scope of voter reaction.

Obviously argument exists for useage of portions of this money elsewhere.

After all the county had EDA applications pending for various projects at the time of the award, as did the school system.

The argument however is not whether or not the this's or that's prevail.

The argument is in whether or not, in spite of our other wants and needs, we - as a county, fulfill our obligation to our children and, through them, our future.

The EDA money may represent the last chance for such fulfillment in a long, long time.

Whittlin' with Whittle

Several weeks ago we jumped on the soapbox and pointed to the fact that cars were always parking on the sidewalk in front of the Main Street United Methodist Church. The result was a blocked walkway and damage to the cement. The parking has eased some, but there are still those who use part of the sidewalk and part of the street as a parking area, which is wrong. But we have found a good point, if there is a good point to being wrong. That being the holes left by all the parking have created a bird bath for our friends of the sky. Just the other day we noticed several birds taking advantage of standing water to get a drink or a quick dip. Behind every dark cloud there's a silver lining. Wish I'd said that.

Tidbits...Insurance salesman to customer: "You've filled in this application all right except for one thing, Mr. Perkins-where it asks the relationship of Mrs. Perkins to yourself, you should have put down 'wife,' not 'strained.'"

We have noticed a great lack of recreational facilities for the youth of visit? Can you recall just sitting on the porch at night talking to your family? Window shopping after the stores were closed? Family reunions? Seems we always found things to do, with very little to do with. But today we are to try just once? Of course there are some who would claim they "rough" it all the time when they go camping. They get in their air conditioned campers and travel to the wild country...back to nature...at a "full service" camp ground...with running water, sewage and electricity. Or maybe even "roughing it" in an outdoor tent...with your Coleman accessories.

And speaking of the "good old days"...remember when you could go to the store, church, for a ride or just about any where and leave your doors unlocked? And friends, neighbors and relatives thought nothing of walking right in even though you might not be at home. Those days are gone for ever. These days you have to buy all the super guard locks and then you can't be sure. They'll even steal the locks these days.

Have a nice day!

To our kids we are sure it would be a "bomber". And a repeat performance would most likely not be called for by the voting crowd. But wouldn't it be fun

Washington report

FOR ALL THE WRONG REASONS

By Trent Lott

WASHINGTON, D.C. - The real and imagined threats that President Carter might veto several public works and education related bills pending in Congress have concerned me for some time now.

On the surface, the President's avowed desire to cut federal spending and balance the budget is commendable. What he says sounds good.

But we have to force ourselves to look beyond the veneer, the slick finish. We have to find the hidden truths and to do that isn't easy.

Underneath it all, I believe the President - while his intentions may be good - is threatening his veto power over the Congress for all the wrong reasons.

One example is defense, where the U.S. already is outnumbered by the Soviet Union in such categories as tanks, artillery, major combatant ships and general purpose submarines. The President apparently would risk losing our posture as the international defense leader merely for the sake of keeping some election year promise he never should have made.

His defense budget, for example, was $2.5 billion less than the one submitted by former President Gerald Ford.

REPORT TO THE PEOPLE

JACKSON - Back in January, we created an Office of Volunteer Services within the Governor's Office, marking the first time our state has had such a service.

The establishment of this office was important to me because the concept of volunteer service fits my beliefs that all Mississippians must work together in a coordinated manner if our state is to move forward at the most rapid rate possible.

The function of this office is to promote coordination and cooperation between the many organizations involved in volunteer work in our state. These organizations do a fantastic job in helping Mississippians who cannot help themselves.

Our new office, which did not require spending any state money, will in no way attempt to run the affairs of the volunteer organizations in our state, but was set up to assist them in any way possible.

In effect, it's the Governor's Office's way of saying that we recognize and appreciate the many and varied contributions that volunteer workers make to the welfare of our people. It's also our way of saying that we are willing to work with the volunteers in a partnership between government and private individuals and organizations.

Through the Office of Volunteer Services, volunteer facilities and agencies can coordinate and cooperate to receive the maximum benefit while reducing duplication of effort and money.

I urge individuals and organizations who do voluntary work to contact Col. Bill Pate, the state coordinator for volunteer services, to utilize the services of this office. His telephone number is 354-7575, or he can be reached through the mail at the Governor's Office, P.O. Box 139, Jackson, Ms., 39205.

The Stennis report

Senator John C. Stennis today gained Senate Public Works Appropriations Subcommittee approval for construction of the Tallahala Creek flood control project in Jasper and Jones Counties.

The Subcommittee recommended $5 million for fiscal year 1978 although President Carter had recommended that the project be cancelled. The House of Representatives yesterday passed a bill providing the same amount as contained in the Senate measure.

During a Capitol Hill news conference, Stennis emphasized that the Subcommittee of which he is chairman sought to recommend a bill that would be agreeable to the Congress and the President. Stennis expressed the opinion that "nobody wins when a bill of this importance and magnitude is vetoed."

Stennis revealed that the Subcommittee has agreed to delete funding for nine water resources projects which had been recommended for cancellation by the President. The projects being recommended for deletion by the Subcommittee totaled over $60 million for fiscal year 1978.

The Mississippi Senator stressed that the Subcommittee had extensively reviewed the projects under consideration. Concerning the Tallahala Creek project, Stennis said, "I have long been convinced of the merits of this project and have been confident that once the facts were fully developed, the Senate would agree that it should continue. I will actively seek final approval of the project."

The Subcommittee has additional meetings scheduled next week and upon completion will present their recommendations for full Appropriations Committee action. Once the bill is approved by the full committee the matter will go before the Senate for consideration.

Merit Standards

The book has been closed on the MERIT Program for Counties - a five-year county development program sponsored by the Mississippi Economic Council.

The MEC program encouraged Mississippi's counties to evaluate services and facilities, and upgrade those that were lacking.

Fifty-eight counties participated in MERIT. Excellence in particular fields was rewarded with a MERIT Award from MEC. Fifty-one awards were presented in 10 categories to 23 participating counties.

Excellence was encouraged in those 10 fields - Beautification, Education, County Finance, Long-Range Planning, Fire Protection, Law Enforcement, Health and Sanitation Recreation, Public Libraries, and Public Works. At least one award was presented in each category.

The essence of the program was not awards, but the attainment of standards in each field. MERIT set goals for the counties - quality services and facilities to which they could aspire.

Because many sought the high standards, new libraries, better law enforcement, more reliable fire protection, more scenic areas and better public works have become more than just goals in some counties. They have become reality.

Though MEC has ended MERIT, the standards remain. While no more awards will be given, the counties can still seek the quality services and facilities encouraged by the program.

"Excellence is still pursued, then MERIT will continue to serve Mississippi."

What's new at the Library

I'D LOVE TO, BUT WHAT'LL I WEAR? by Polly Bergen.

Nobody knows better than Polly Bergen - TV star, mother, business executive, and divorcee with an active social life - that dress means more to a woman than just dressing; that it's an expression of her personality, her style, her mood, her mission of the moment, her feelings about herself and others (and what she chooses to say about those feelings).

And nobody knows better how difficult it can be to decide what looks right and feels right in these days when there are almost no dress rules, and your look (or, really, the many different looks of your multi-faced self) is up to you alone.

How do you go about developing the "you" look for anytime, anywhere, and do it with confidence? How can you manage your shopping so you'll build a multi-use wardrobe systematically even if you can't spend a lot... make the most of your physical assets even if you're too short, too heavy, too busty, or too hippy... make magic with scarves and many other accessories to dress almost any outfit up (or down) for almost any occasion... save time and toss off the mistakes everyone makes, including Polly?

Here, with more than 60 illustrations, are dozens and dozens of tips "for the occasion," "for business," "for mischief," "for the sporting life," and "for roaming".

Going to dinner at the boss' house? Or maybe at the White House? Meeting his mother for the first time? Off to a New Year's party? A PTA meeting? A job interview? Going swimming? To a nudist camp? A baby shower? The neighborhood pizzeria?

Gambling in Las Vegas?

Shopping in London? Everything you need to know for the perfect wardrobe is right here, without rigid rules but with plenty of fun, for looking great and feeling great.

THE FIVE OF ME. The autobiography of a multiple personality, by Henry Hawksworth with Ted Schwarz.

In the first in-depth study of a male multiple personality, a California businessman tells of the chilling encounters with the five people who lived in his body and battled for control: Dana, the studious intellectual; Johnny, sadistic, often violent; Peter, a gentle poet; Phil, who took over in moments of crisis; and finally Henry Hawksworth, the man who had slept for forty years.

Readers of SYBIL and THE THREE FACES OF EVE will recognize the desperate terror of his amnesia and radical shifts of mood as the author moves from job to job, marries, joins Alcoholics Anonymous, and finally undergoes fusion therapy for final treatment, knowing that if he was to leave as a whole man, part of him must die. The rest is how he began to live again; how he fell in love with his wife of 22 years, met his grown children, and became the first person in a courtroom to use multiple personality as a basis for defense.

GREAT BIG BEAUTIFUL DOLL. by Stella Jolles Reichman.

Get ready, America, here comes Stella - 190 pounds of dynamic femininity. And her message to you is: Down with Thin Chauvinism! Big is Beautiful! For too long, large women have suffered the propaganda of the fashion and diet industries, feeling inferior if they didn't look like bean-poles. If you're size 14 or over, Stella shows you that you do not have the unhealthy, unhappy or unloved.

Spokeswoman for Lane Bryant stores, Stella Jolles Reichman tells you how to stop worrying and start living: GREAT BIG BEAUTIFUL DOLL is your inspiration and your manual of liberation. Here is a wealth of practical advice including chapters on proper exercise for large bodies; special grooming and hairstyling advice; how to shop for and make the right kind of clothes for the large frame; and special cosmetic techniques for the ample face. Each chapter is abundantly illustrated with gorgeous photographs of Stella by Cris Alexander.

Thin, says Stella, has been "in" only for a relatively short time; large ladies have been praised and beloved throughout history. So stop suffering the Wages of Thin! Throw away those diet books and get to work on the real beautiful you.

Bay-Waveland B&PW is state's first new club

The newly formed Bay-Waveland Business and Professional Women's Club became the first new club to be accepted into the Mississippi Federation in the new 1977-78 year. At the annual State Convention, which was held in Jackson this year from June 9 to 12, Ann Einwich, the new club president, and Norma Williams, first vice president were officially recognized as delegates by special vote, and the club received an award as the first new B&PW Club in the state.

The convention was attended by 325 B&PW women; state, district and local officers, delegates, and club members came together from throughout the state to report on their activities during the past year and to lay plans for the coming year under the new national B&PW slogan of "Change, Challenge, and Response".

The chief objectives of B&PW Clubs are to evaluate the standards from women in business and in professions, and to promote the interests of women. Founded in 1919, the organization worked for women's suffrage and has been actively involved in legislation which concerns women. This year, heading the legislative platform which was adopted by the Mississippi Convention is the promotion of the Equal Rights Amendment.

Among the distinguished guests who attended were Sharon Wiber, national Young Career Woman Chairman, who represented the National Federation; Evelyn Gandy, Lt. Governor of Mississippi who is also a past state president of the Mississippi Federation, and "Sonny" Montgomery, Member of Congress from the Fourth District. Twelve past state presidents were present, as was our own coastal celebrity, Nona Horner of the Gulfport Club, a "1919'er" who attended the founding convention of B&PW in St. Louis Missouri in 1919.

Highlights of the convention, hosted by the Jackson Club, included an evening boat ride on the Ross Barnett Reservoir, and workshops on B&PW programs, one of which, "Membership Expansion", was conducted by the new Bay-Waveland president. The selection of Evelyn McDonald, of the Vicksburg Club, as State Woman of Achievement and Donna Brown, of Pascagoula, as State Young Career Woman was also announced.

A formal procession and presentation of new club presidents and district and state officers preceded the Saturday evening banquet, where the keynote address was given by Congressman Montgomery, and the newly elected state officers were installed Sharon Wiber, the national representative, in a beautiful and impressive candlelight ceremony.

Willie Mae Mitchell of Forest became the new 1977-78 president of the Mississippi State Federation, succeeding Barbara Johnson of Ridgeland. Mrs. Mitchell is also president of the Mississippi Congress of Parents and Teachers, and Mrs. Johnson was chosen this year as one of the ten "Outstanding Young Women of America".

The convention closed on Sunday with a memorial service for deceased members, awards to clubs for various activities, and an invitation to the 1978 convention which will be held next year on the coast in Biloxi.

"Do you need a job?" is theme of Human Resources Development office

by JAKE JACOB
The Human Resources Development Institute (HRDI) counts a little "rich" for Bay St. Louis but in reality it's a "down to earth" attempt by some exceptional people to procure better paying jobs for the Mississippi Gulf Coast, and put employees in those positions.

Classed officially as the "The Manpower Arm of the AFL-CIO," the organization has placed an average of 200 plus people per year into jobs more suited to their talents, or initiated a course of action resulting in their being trained for jobs earning a higher rate of pay or offering a greater degree of security.

The office operates without fanfare or extensive advertising preferring instead to rely on word of mouth promotion, given freely by those it has already helped and continues to provide moral and institutional support.

HRDI is totally funded by the Department of Labor under contract to the AFL-CIO. Its purpose is to continue to develop new approaches in utilizing manpower resources as a means to provide the opportunity for all Americans to share in a decent, dignified and fulfilling way of life.

To achieve this end, HRDI opened a series of regional offices, one of which is in Gulfport, and another in Pascagoula.

The Gulfport office is manned, not by a large staff of people running every which way and spending most of their time completing forms for filing or forwarding to other places for other people to complete more forms, but rather by one man and a secretary, both dedicated to getting the job done, and both donating hours of personal time and effort - apart from their salaried time, in achieving the organization's aims.

Curtis Favre of Bay St. Louis is director of the Gulfport section and he has just one ambition - to try and help as many people as possible through HRDI's multiplicity of programs and contacts.

"When we started this program we concentrated on the hard core areas and minority groups.

"Now, growing as we learned, we have expanded our interest areas.

"Since its establishment in 1968, HRDI has sought to broaden and deepen organized labor's participation in all phases of the national manpower effort - in the formulation of national manpower policy as well as in the planning and operation of programs at the local level.

"HRDI is an integral part of the American labor movement and works closely with international unions, state and local labor councils, local unions, and with the AFL-CIO's trade and service departments.

"We work closely with government, business, and community groups in developing manpower programs," Favre said.

He said that HRDI's programs are geared to overcome problems such as lack of skills, insufficient education, discrimination, language difficulties, and other barriers that may keep working people from realizing their potential.

"A major objective is to provide the training and work experience that will enable men and women to develop the skills they need to obtain and keep useful, decent-paying jobs," Favre allowed.

Favre was employed at NASA's National Space Technologies Laboratory before coming to HRDI. Since working at NASA he was first a labor foreman, and then transferred to mosquito and pest control activities until his leaving.

While at NSTL he was president of the International Association of Machinists Local, and also president of the District Lodge No. 73.

A native of Bay St. Louis, he is a graduate of Saint Stanislaus College, Class of '44, and a dairy manufacturing major of South Eastern Louisiana College. He served in the U.S. Navy from 1944-'46.

After working for nearly four years in Roman Dairies, Bay St. Louis, and as a press operator for the Sea Coast Echo, he went to the test site in September, 1963.

Favre said some areas of his task occupy greater attention than others, but are more "personally rewarding" when his efforts are crowned with success.

"Here I mean such things as placing women in non-traditional jobs, and the development of ways for such placements.

"By this I mean women working as welders, fitters, equipment operators and so forth, areas not previously considered "traditional" except for men," he explained.

He said that two other areas of concentration are programs dealing with the ex-offender and apprenticeships.

"Working with local labor unions and correctional institutions, we assist in the development of practical, realistic training programs for prisoners.

"HRDI has also developed "released time" work and training programs, and special programs for women offenders and offenders with drug problems.

"Another part of our function is in the provision of counseling services and the helping of released offenders to find jobs or enter employment and training programs," Favre detailed.

Favre said the interests of his office also span assistance to veterans, his receiving word of discharged vets entering this area in search of employment ahead of their arrival in the coastal labor market; manpower education, the informing of organized labor of manpower programs, issued, and the like, while also sponsoring manpower educational activities for government, industry, and various community organizations.

With its manpower development program HRDI offers technical assistance to international unions, state and local central bodies, local labor unions and other labor organizations in their efforts to develop training programs, utilizing federal, state, local, and other funding sources.

Such programs include upgrade or on-the-job training, training for offenders, youth employment, and other programs designed to assist disadvantaged persons and union members who are unemployed or underemployed.

Also HRDI is responsible for the administration and coordination of 22 Apprenticeship Outreach Programs, designed to recruit and prepare primarily minority youth for apprenticeship in the construction trades.

And, in just one of many other programs, HRDI assists in developing upgrading programs for low-income workers who have been unable to move beyond entry-level positions.

Favre, whose range of operations is limited to 50 miles each side of his base, said he is also now hard at work on an aid to the handicapped program and in a summer youth placement program.

He said that last year, in a project jointly funded by the government and the National Alliance of Businessmen, his office placed 235 youths into summer jobs.

"Mostly from disadvantaged homes these jobs gave the young people an opportunity to learn that they couldn't make it through life without an education.

"Others, who were not doing too badly in school, went back with renewed and new ambitions, based on what they had seen and learned during their brief exposure to the private sector.

"The students were paid the minimum wage and were docked if they missed work, and fired if they didn't want to work.

"This year we have an expanded program.

"So far my office has placed 91 and it looks like we will have over 200 working before the end of summer.

"Through this program we try to let the students know what is expected of them by industry.

"Too, it lets them know that if they drop out of school in the eighth and ninth grade they are going to have a tough time," Favre said.

Married to the former Jessie Mae Dahl, the couple have 14 children and are "at home" at 202 Chartres Street, Bay St. Louis.

Favre said that anyone interested in any of the HRDI programs, or needs help in finding a job, can contact him at his office, 2408 14th Street, Gulfport, or by phone at 866-2611.

The HRDI slogan is "Do you need a job?"

They are doing their part. We are doing ours. The rest is up to you! At least it's worth a try!

If you're off to the beach or pool with children in tow, remember, their skin needs care, too. Children don't burn any worse than adults...but they do burn. All children ought to be protected just as adults should be. And if you have a little blue-eyed, red-haired freckler in the family, you'll have to apply a sunblock early and often.

CHECKING POLICE BLOTTER or charge book, Gloria Corswell of Waveland, begins to learn police procedures in Hancock County Sheriff's office. Deputy Mac Coward, left, is explaining method of entering information and how to read record. Curtis Favre, right, is Gulfport director of Human Resources Development Institute, who arranged for summer job placement under their Youth Program for Vocational Exploration. Miss Corswell plans on entering Pearl River Junior College this fall to embark on a course of studies leading to her qualification as a legal secretary.

In service

Marine Lance Corporal Houston J. Dorr, son of Mona Morgan of 407 Rosehart Drive, Pass Christian, recently completed a seven-week goodwill cruise in the Western Pacific.

He is serving as a member of the Marine Detachment, embarked aboard the guided missile cruiser USS Oklahoma City, homeported in Yokosuka, Japan. The Oklahoma City is the flagship of the commander of the U.S. Seventh Fleet.

The Oklahoma City is 610 feet long and carries a crew of approximately 1,200 officers and enlisted men, in addition to more than 200 personnel of the Seventh Fleet staff. She is outfitted with guns, a surface-to-air missile launcher and a landing platform for light helicopters.

A 1976 graduate of Pass Christian High School, he joined the Marine Corps in August 1976.

Baptized

Ellen Eaton Kergosien, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ames Kergosien of Bay St. Louis, was baptized Sunday at Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church with Rev. Msgr. Gregory Johnson, pastor, officiating.

Godparents are Mr. and Mrs. Dean Bourg of Thibodaux.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Kergosien home.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture reports that in 1950, the average farmer produced enough food and fiber for 16 other persons. Today, each farmer feeds and clothes 56 others. By 1950, the figure should rise to 65.

Buccaneer Crew Notes

Early Friday night the park filled with campers looking forward to a fun-filled weekend. The activities began with June Dearman showing "The Bridge of Adam Rush," an ABC afterschool special for children. Later Friday night John Szeszmy, 16, of Mirmar, Fla., captured first place in the adult tennis tournament.

Saturday campers competed in an all day volleyball tournament between the different loops of the park. And what a volleyball game that was! There was also an all day pinball tournament with Mike Bourque, 12, of Metairie taking first place followed closely by Tim Freeman, 15, of Bay St. Louis.

Father's Day would not have been the same Sunday without the children gathering in the Rec-hall to create their own original cards for their dads. Dodie Serpas, 6, of Gretna was judged to have made the "most sincere" cards for both her father and her grandfather.

This Friday, June Dearman will read a story and show a movie in the Rec-hall at 3:30 p.m. All children come join in the fun. And don't forget Saturday there will be a field day on the beach. Everyone is welcome to participate—sack races, fun games, frisbee, and more! We hope to see lots of participants on the beach in front of the park at 3 p.m.

Although milk is processed it's not an engineered or fabricated food. It naturally has two major components: fat, including fat soluble vitamins, and solids-not-fat, which includes proteins, carbohydrate, water-soluble vitamins and minerals. These nutrients in milk make it a food not duplicated by modern science.

Consumer's Corner

by Mary Wallace

Consumers are becoming increasingly more concerned about replacing some of the salt and sugar in their home prepared foods. Experts, including medical doctors and the American Dietetics Association, are encouraging us to do this. But most consumers are unsure about how to begin.

To cut down on sugar in the diet, Norine Condon of the American Dietetics Association suggests trying new combinations of foods and seasonings. Shredded coconut, for example, makes fruit taste sweeter. She also suggests cooking with sweet spices and herbs such as nutmeg, mace, basil, ginger, cardamom, and coriander. Dr. Jeremiah Stamler of Northwestern University Medical School, an expert on high blood pressure, stresses the importance of cutting down on salt. The average American consumes more than an ounce of salt a day. This could be cut in half simply by not adding salt during cooking or at the table. By learning to cook with herbs and spices, foods can taste very good without added salt.

Why not consult a cookbook for a spice and herb chart and have fun experimenting?

We feature Topco brands!

Not only do we offer you nationally advertised brands, but also other products of consistent quality which we can sell for less. Our own Topco family of brands — a wide assortment of food and non-food products — gives you outstanding value.

Topco's strong program of quality control assures you that our first quality products are equal to or better than the leading nationally advertised brands! Yet they offer you real economy. Our brands are priced lower than comparable national brands — sometimes only a penny or two lower, but often, depending upon the size or type of product, a nickel or a dime lower!

How does Topco achieve lower cost? By large volume, which allows increased efficiency. By specialization and knowledge of products, which allows wise buying. By lower costs of distribution, because products are shipped in volume direct to our warehouse, eliminating the "middle man" and his cost. And Topco products do not carry the heavy costs of national advertising.

Our merchandising philosophy can be summed up in one word — balance. We give you a choice of two different types of products: nationally advertised brands and our own Topco family of brands. While we feel that by and large you obtain a better value with Topco, we leave the choice up to you.

The quality is equal to or better than the leading national brands...the price is up to 20% lower!

Hancock Bank wins first round

Hancock Bank defeated Gulf National Bank 7 to 5 Friday night to capture the first round of the 1977 Little League season. The game was one which was well played with both teams demonstrating excellent hitting, defense, and pitching.

Gulf National started the scoring in the top of the first inning when David McIver singled and consecutive doubles were hit by Rowe Crowder, Greg Williams, and Kris Geroux, scoring 3 runs. Hancock Bank then scored 3 runs in the bottom of the first on doubles by Darrell Hardie, Brock Godwin, and Gus Aime. Gulf National scored 2 more runs in the top of the third when Rowe Crowder tripled, followed by singles by Williams and Geroux. Hancock scored 1 run in the bottom of the third and fourth innings to tie the game after 4 innings. In the bottom of the fifth, Hancock Bank scored the winning runs. Charles Gillum started the inning with a double and scored when Smith singled. Smith reached 2nd base on the throw to home plate and then stole 3rd base. T. J. Favre hit a long fly ball to left field to score Smith. Gulf National attempted to rally in the top of the sixth inning but their hopes were ended when Vince Elchos was thrown out at home plate while attempting to score from 2nd base on a single by John Moss.

The winning pitcher for Hancock Bank was Gus Aime; Williams was the loser for Gulf National. Brock Godwin (Hancock Bank) led all hitters going 3 for 3.

3rd Annual Junior Fishing Rodeo set for this weekend

by JAKE JACOB
More than 80 prizes will be awarded for entries to the third annual Junior Fishing Rodeo, this weekend, at the American Legion Pier, Washington St. and Beach Boulevard, Bay St. Louis.

Sponsored by the Bay-Waveland Gun and Rod Club, the rodeo will start at 4 p.m., Friday, and continue to the close of scales at 4 p.m., Saturday, June 25.

Open to fisherfolk between the ages of 6-15, boys and girls, the rodeo will also feature a special Blue Crab Division for entrants 4-5 years old. This group must be accompanied by a parent at all times. Fishing must take place in and around the Bay St. Louis area, and deadline for registration forms to be into rodeo headquarters is noon, Saturday.

Although hooks may be dropped into the briny (or any other waters haunted by fish) from 4 p.m., Friday, scales do not open until 8 a.m., Saturday, and the decision of the weighmaster will, at all times, be final.

"All fish must be caught on hook and line except flounder, which may be gilled," Rodeo President Frank Ladner said this week.

He said that entrants must "...display good sportsmanship at all times."

Fisherfolk registering for the rodeo will be entitled to a free rodeo design on their T-shirt.

Registrants should bring a new, white T-shirt to the registration desk and the design will be silk screened onto the shirt free of charge.

For identification purposes, all T-shirts must have the owner's name either pinned to the shirt or written inside the collar.

Eligible fish include such salt water varieties as: speckled trout, redfish, croaker, flounder, ground mullet, white trout, sheephead, and drum; fresh water species such as: green trout, blue gill, and shell cracker.

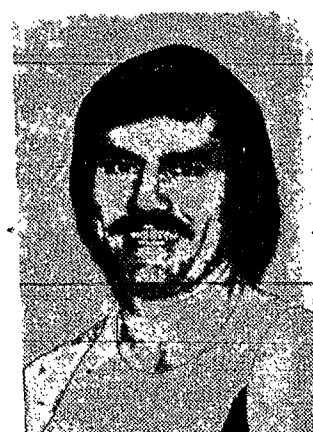

King and Queen fisherfolk prizes, will be awarded on the basis of a point per prize system.

Other prizes include: first, second, and third places for each eligible fish; first through tenth in the special Blue Crab Division; special prizes for the largest fish by weight of any type caught during the rodeo; and a prize to all who enter a fish in the rodeo.

All registered fisherfolk who do not win trophies for their efforts, will be eligible for drawings on special prizes. Prizes will be awarded in ceremonies to follow the closing of the scales.

The registration form carried with this article may be completed ahead of time and carried with the contestant to the rodeo registration booth to save time on Saturday.

NEW BOARD ELECTED

Mrs. Valerie Braybrooke, director of University Museums at Ole Miss, has been elected to the seven-member board of directors of the newly-formed Mississippi Museums Association. First meeting was held at Florewood Plantation in Greenwood.

Dairy products supply 75 percent of our daily dietary calcium requirements and, since there are eight different dairy foods, offer a variety of ways in which to satisfy our need for calcium. If you're not in the mood for milk, try cheese, butter, ice cream, yogurt, cottage cheese, sour cream, or cream.

UM REPRESENTED

Ole Miss will be represented by two delegates at the American Association of University Women on June 23-29 in Minneapolis. They are Dr. Martin Chambliss, Oxford branch president, and Dr. Cora Norman, past president of the Mississippi Division of AAUW.

In service

Army Private Raymond A. Fitzgerald, whose wife, Sharon, and parents, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin V. Fitzgerald, live on Rt. 3, Pass Christian, recently was assigned as a grenadier with the 36th Infantry in Kirch Gens, Germany.

Pvt. Fitzgerald entered the Army in December 1976. The private attended Jeff Davis Junior College, Gulfport.

Dairying is one of the most demanding jobs in farming. The cows have to be milked morning and night 365 days a year. There is no shutting off the cows for a couple of days vacation. Labor is hard to get for that job, and expensive to keep; so dairying remains largely a family enterprise.

Betcha we can make you

Fishing was fairly good this past week, but not as good as it could have been, because of a prevailing west wind the first part of this week. But despite the wind, fish were still caught in Lake Borgne, the Louisiana Marshes and out-front along the beach. Most of the fish are being caught on live bait, but a few are being caught on fresh dead bait and artificials.

There seems to be a lot of bait in the water, and this could be the reason a lot of people aren't catching fish like they should be. When the fish have a lot of food to choose from they can become real picky.

Fresh-water fishing isn't what it should be either because of the hot weather and lack of rain. The hot weather sends the fish looking for deep holes to escape from the heat and the lack of rain makes it harder for the fish to find the holes, because a lot of our local ponds are drying up and becoming mud holes.

We all have a tendency to just sit back and let things take their course. We sportfishermen always talk about how the gill netters are ruining the fishing. Well now we have an opportunity to let the Mississippi Marine Conservation Commission know how we feel about the matter. There will be a second public hearing on the gill-netting matter sometime in July. So all you sportfishermen get off your cans and stand up for what you believe in. I want to see a lot of familiar faces at the next meeting.

All you people that wade out front floundering, soft-shelling or fishing watch out for the sting-rays. You probably avoid being stung by one just by shuffling your feet across the bottom instead of raising them off the bottom.

ANSLEY: There have been a few flounders, croakers and specks caught along the shoreline. There were some nice specks caught at Three Mile Pass and at Campbells Bayou. One of our campers, Mr. Walton caught a nice jack-fish near Big Grassy Island. (Mrs. Hall, LaFrances Fishing Camp)

BAYOU CADDY: The speck fishing is pretty good, there have been some nice ones caught at Half-Moon Island. The wade fishermen are catching a few specks out front. One of our employees, Mark Garcia has been gigging some beautiful flounders near the mouth of the bayou. We have live and frozen bait. We open at 5:00 a.m. (Mrs. Lionel Bordage, Bordages Bros. Fishing Camp)

JOE'S BAYOU: The good places seem to be holding up because fish are still being caught at Grassy Point and toward the end of the seawall, they are also catching some at the cut-off. We had some people down from Purvis and Hattiesburg fishing here for two days, they seemed to have done pretty good. Henry Neyrey and Sylvan Carver caught 7 nice reds this past week on live bait. We have plenty of live bait and frozen bait. We have rental skiffs and we open at 5:00 a.m. (Mrs. Allie Cospelich, Joe's Bayou Marina)

PEARLINGTON: The water is real pretty and clear, but the water temperature is terribly high and we need some rain to cool it down. The fishing was fair this past week, there were a few bass and bream caught. The fishing this week should be best early in the morning with a low tide. Most people were going out shrimping this past week. The Gulf Coast Bass Masters had a tournament here Saturday, there were 13 boats with 26 men.

The top 4 winners were as follows:

Don Hanson 1st with 10-11 lbs.

Bill Meybrey 2nd with 8 lbs.

—Monks 3rd

Bufford Necaise 4th

Largest bass was a 4 pounder caught by Hanson. (Mr. Roy Baxter, Pearl River Marina)

Until next week: May all of your fishing trips be enjoyable, but safe!

CHAPMAN REGATTA - Bay-Waveland scored an overwhelming victory in the Chapman Regatta, hosted by Gulfport Yacht Club, last week-end. Each of the four races saw Bay-Waveland crews take the top two positions in the 16 boat fleet. Four Flying Scots were entered by each of the four participating yacht clubs in each of the four races.

Race Committee Chairman Scotty Barrett and Regatta Chairman Ellen Andre were commended for their efforts in putting on a successful regatta which was enjoyed by so many members and guests.

Commodore Hewes called on Mrs. Henry Chapman to present the Chapman Regatta first place plaque for the Mississippi Coast Yachting Association Championship to winning team captain Marc Eagan of BWYC.

The finishers of the Bay Waveland skippers in the first race were John Heath, first, Ellen Eagan, second, Ann Stieffel, fourth and Charlie Staehle, sixth. Second race - Mac Hadden, first, Harry Chapman, second, Basil Kennedy, third, Cindy Stieffel, 11th. #### WORK PROCEEDS

A cocaine bibliography which includes a listing of all scientific articles on the so-called "Cadillac of abused drugs" published since 1900 is being prepared by scientists in the Ole Miss Research Institute of Pharmaceutical Sciences. Dr. Coy Waller and Dr. Carlton Turner, director and associate director of the Institute, earlier completed a similar bibliography on marijuana published by Macmillan Publishing Co.

Use of channel 8 on the citizen band radios may soon be informally recognized as the farmer's channel. The Rural Traffic Committee of the National Institute for Farm Safety is promoting the idea.

VA news

Q - Both my neighbor and I are 100 per cent service-connected disabled. He and his wife receive $785 from the VA each month. Why do my wife and I only get $750?

A - Your neighbor receives an additional $35 because his wife is in need of aid and attendance.

Q - I am a veteran who has been awarded disability compensation rated at 40 per cent. What is the advantage of receiving benefits under the VA vocational rehabilitation program?

A - While in training and for two months after rehabilitation, eligible disabled veterans may receive subsistence allowances in addition to their disability compensation, plus tuition, books and fees.
